Example of a Master Calendar for NAP Associations

This document is a draft resource for utilization and customization by the NAP Associations and Units to identify roles and responsibilities of its officers to accomplish throughout the year. Be sure to review all governing documents for Association and Unit reporting requirements in order for this calendar to meet the needs of the organization. This master calendar example is based on the NAP biennial term. Those associations and units with annual terms should customize this calendar for your benefit. (For example, odd numbered year newly elected officers take office after elections.)

Suggestions are welcome to improve this resource. Please email Valoree Althoff, PRP, of any recommended edits. eerolav@hotmail.com.

GENERAL INFORMATION/HELPFUL HINTS

All officers/directors
- Complete necessary board training to be familiar with roles and responsibilities.
- Be familiar with mission, vision, values, and resources like bylaws and the operations manual, and know where to find them.
- Gain leadership skills on fiduciary duties of officers independently or as a group.
- Disclose any perceived conflicts of interest whenever necessary.
- Be comfortable with giving your “elevator speech.” Be able to speak to what the profession does and why it is important to be a member.

President, Secretary
- Maintain and be familiar with current governing documents for association and NAP. (Include necessary resources like operational manual. Be sure regularly reviewed for updating.)
- Update officers and any known changes to contact information to NAP.
- Read NAP Update for any useful news from NAP Headquarters, reports, events, etc.
- Be in communication with Units regularly. Share useful templates/information.
- Share success stories/information by submitting information for publication in the NP Journal.

Communications director: Publicity for convention
- Submit to NAP Headquarters the convention details for posting on the NAP events page.
- Publicize in the District newsletter by contacting the District Director.
- Be timely in posting registration 4-6 months prior to the event.
- Use a “Save-the-date” mailing or page on the website so the date is released early.
- Send the members registration early in a direct email/mail so they receive the information early.
- Post the event details with other groups for publicity. (Local/state newspaper, United Way, leadership groups, trade unions, etc.)
- Be sure to invite past attendees. Keep contact information for each event to maintain a database.

President, Member Services, or Secretary
- Contact membership throughout the year. (Events, meetings, membership renewal invitation. Do not wait for the first communication to be a membership renewal reminder for dues request.)

Website/Communications director
- Continuously maintain events, officers, links on the website so information is current.
- Update social media when necessary to maintain/increase communication.

Treasurer
- File IRS-N 990 (or required national tax statement) at the end of the fiscal year.
• File any necessary reports to the State to maintain incorporation status and any tax-exempt status received.
